Jeff Frasier, owner of JS Frasier Construction, started his home building career in Vancouver, WA and has been building in the Tri-Cities for the past 2 years. With his 18 plus years of experience and unique style, he offers quality and value in every home. Specializing in custom homes packed with extras in the Candy Mountain subdivision, he carries the same standards into the new homes now featured in Creekstone.

The Tamarack is a 2,200 square foot single story craft home nestled in a quiet park-like setting. Having 10-foot ceilings throughout gives this home a large open feel. Gourmet kitchens complete with raised bar island, slab granite counter, oversized utility, and custom trim packages are just a few of the extras this home has to offer. Jeff feels very fortunate to have the opportunity to build in the Tri-Cities and has always believed that to build a successful home it takes a great team. With that he would like to thank the team involved.
